POSITION CONTEXT
Despite major improvements in cancer prevention, detection, treatment and management over the last forty years, significant inequities in cancer outcomes remain, particularly for specific population groups and for people living in rural and regional Victoria. Contributing to overcoming inequitable outcomes for Victorians affected by cancer is a core goal of the Victorian Comprehensive Cancer Centre’s (VCCC’s) strategic plan for 2020-2024.

As an alliance of 10 organisations, the VCCC has a unique opportunity to enable sustainable systems change through careful collaborative action focused on challenges difficult for individual organisations to address. With our focus on building capability through enabling innovation in clinical research, clinical trials, translation of evidence into practice and education and training, the VCCC has demonstrated success in identifying and addressing barriers to participation for some groups – such as for adolescents and young people wishing to participate in clinical trials thereby receive treatment they would otherwise not have had.
The VCCC has established a program of work to increase attention on addressing inequities across all VCCC programs. Fundamental to this is to ensure we build on, rather than duplicate, existing initiatives and knowledge and target our action to key areas where the VCCC can contribute the most value. The key aims of this program are to:

- Establish an advisory group to ensure the needs of underserved populations are addressed in the work of the VCCC now and into the future
- Collaborate across the VCCC and with external partners to ensure the VCCC is complementing and building on the work of others to improve equity of cancer outcomes
- Develop a methodological framework to ensure the VCCC adds maximum value to improving equity of cancer outcomes
- Develop, implement and evaluate interventional strategies to address inequities in cancer outcomes.

Key priority groups identified to date include Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities and people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds, and, over time, additional groups and issues may be identified. It is envisaged that any work with Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander communities will be Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander-led, potentially through establishment of an appropriate advisory mechanism, such as the employment of an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Research and Education Lead and/or an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Project Officer and engagement with key organisations such as the Victorian Aboriginal Community Controlled Health Service.

POSITION PURPOSE

The Manager, Health Equity will work closely with an already established program Steering Group and be accountable for driving ongoing development and implementation of the VCCC Cancer Health Equity Program. This will include:

- establishing a VCCC Health Equity Advisory Group and implementing activities to identify and capitalise on opportunities to improve equity across VCCC programs;
- supporting establishment and implementation of an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander led initiative; and
- conducting work to progress action for other identified groups and/or issues, such as people from culturally and linguistically diverse backgrounds.

This role requires a pro-active and highly-motivated individual with significant experience in developing and implementing complex equity-related initiatives, preferably in the health sector, and who can establish strong collaborative relationships with staff across the VCCC, within member organisations and with external stakeholder. Level of the position within the VCCC structure and remuneration will be dependent on the level of experience and expertise of the suitable incumbent.

ORGANISATIONAL CONTEXT

Vision

The vision for the Victorian Comprehensive Cancer Centre (VCCC) is to save lives through the integration of consumer-engaged cancer research, education and patient care.

Founded in the holistic principles of the internationally-recognised Comprehensive Cancer Centre model, the VCCC alliance brings together 10 of Victoria’s leading research, academic, and clinical institutions to achieve what can only be done through state-wide collaboration. Together we will improve outcomes in cancer in metropolitan, regional and rural Victoria, and forge new approaches to cancer research, education, and patient care for all.
Operating Environment
The VCCC’s multi-site, multi-disciplinary model brings together the complementary strengths of Peter MacCallum Cancer Centre, Melbourne Health (including The Royal Melbourne Hospital), the University of Melbourne, Walter and Eliza Hall Institute of Medical Research, The Royal Women’s Hospital, The Royal Children’s Hospital, Western Health, St Vincent’s Hospital Melbourne (including St Vincent’s Institute), Austin Health (including the Olivia Newton-John Cancer Research Institute and Austin Lifesciences) and Murdoch Children’s Research Institute.

The VCCC has a 3.5-year agreement to June 2024 with the Department of Health and Human Services to develop and implement new and innovative cancer research and treatment programs under an agreed Strategic Plan.

Our Team
VCCC is made up of a tight-knit team of staff who form the backbone working to facilitate the power of collective impact across the VCCC alliance and beyond.

Collective impact underpins ‘how’ we work and how we enable not only the work of the alliance, but how we positively influence the culture of our shared working experience. Collective impact starts by defining a shared problem and working together with our members, consumers and partners to codesign a shared vision to solve it. We agree on how to regularly measure progress, to not only communicate headway but to also allow for continuous learning and improvement.

The VCCC team foster and coordinate the expertise of the alliance and other partners to encourage and enable collective effort to achieve more than any single entity can achieve on its own. At the VCCC, our team, along with our distributed leaders, are our backbone. We are dedicated to facilitating the expertise of the alliance in the ambitious task of implementing sustainable systemic change to continuously improve equitable care and outcomes for cancer patients.
